FP Topic

The topic that I chose to write about is life after college. The reason I choose to write about this topic is because I'm curious about what people plan to do after they graduate college, will they go straight into finding a job, will they already have a job in mind, or if they already have a job offer somewhere. Life after college is always on my mind even though I am a freshman I still wonder about it, I still don't know exactly what I want to do in the field of I.T, so this is on my mind a lot. It's something that we aren't able to make a guarantee if we don't work hard enough, that is why I will be trying my hardest to make it in the I.T field when I'm out of college, I will try and learn all that I can about it. Back to the topic at hand life after college is something that all college students must think about if they want their life to be successful, even when I was in high school, I thought what my life would be after college, it's something that we all think about and can't put off, if we put it off what was the point in even going to college unless you have some kind of plan on what to do afterwards. My plan is to get some kind of job in the I.T field that I love doing and that is able to get me good pay, me and my girlfriend always talk about the future, and we want to do what we love she wants to become a detective, and we both want to build our dream home and have kids, that's just the start but at least that's a plan. The people that I am going to choose to interview for this are my three roommates, the three of them are juniors this year so their closer to graduating than I am at the moment, their names are Chris, Christopher, and Nathan. The reason I'm choosing them is one they're closer to graduating than I am, and from the sound of they might have a plan for their life after they graduate. One interview is going to be a little interesting, Nathan is already doing what he wants so I'll be able to ask him more questions that I won't be able to ask the other two. If I am able to I'll try to interview another person but I'm not sure yet, if I have the time I will if I don't then I'll only interview those three. What I hope to learn about this by the end of the semester is what people are doing to achieve this goal, how hard they're working for it, and to see if they even have any plan after they graduate. I am also interested in what my roommates really want to do with what they are learning, how they can use the skill they acquired during college after they graduate, how much they really have planned out and what they're overall goal is.
